RAILROAD NEWS

Another Train on the Salt Lake Line—Twenty Minute Service Promised on the Pacific Electric

The Salt Lake railroad put on an additional train this week, now running two trains a day as follows: Leave Los Angeles 9:30 a. m. and 2:00 p. m.; Verdugo Park 12 m. and 4:30 p. m. This change is supposed to have been made to accommodate the owners of the Verdugo Canon tract (the old Verdugo Ranch property) and it is said that Mr. Pirtle, who holds the principal interest in this property, has an agreement signed by representatives of the railroad company to put on gasoline motors and give frequent passenger service as soon as cars can be secured. Plausibility is given to this rumor by the fact that the land company has recently spent a large sum of money in laying out roads and making other improvements and has also made a number of sales of lots with a proviso to the effect that car service is to be established between the canon and Los Angeles. An excursion is advertised to take place tomorrow (Sunday).

General Manager William McMillan recently assured Glendale people who conferred with him, that a twenty-minute service will be established on the Pacific Electric Glendale branch as soon as the cars can be secured, and that there will be two cars on all trains. Every car leaving on the even hour is to be a "Flyer," stopping at only one or two points in Tropico and Glendale. Mr. McMillan says that the Glendale traffic is the hardest proposition to figure on that they have, the travel being heavy but so irregular that it is difficult to arrange cars so as to accommodate it. There seems to be, however, a desire on the part of the railroad people to give this section better service as soon as it is possible to bring it about.

TRUSTEES.

The usual number of demands upon the city treasury were received and referred. The public works committee reported having met General Manager McMillan of the Pacific Electric Railway company regarding the grade of said road, and that he had agreed to have the engineer of the road come out and take up the matter with the city engineer.

The question of payment to water companies for water used at fires, was referred to the fire and public safety committee.

The question of payment by water companies of a fifty cent fee for connections referred to ordinance committee.

The city clerk was instructed to have blank nominating petitions printed to be furnished gratis for use of candidates for office at the next municipal election.

The street superintendent was instructed to require the Domestic Gas company to lay its pipes in accordance with provisions of the resolution in regard to the same, except when impracticable, in which case the superintendent can give special permission. The city marshal made a report as to action taken to enforce the dog ordinance.

Corrected report of the tax collector was received and filed.

Report of engineer on improvement of Eighth street and Glendale avenue was received and filed. The communication received from the city of South Pasadena inviting city officials to be present and assist in the celebration there of Washington's birthday was accepted informally and the clerk directed to reply accordingly. An application to do street work by private contract on a portion of Seventh street from E. D. Reynolds, was received and request granted.

The award of contract for improvement of Eighth street was made to George B. Mock. The same action was taken in regard to Glendale avenue. The matter of extension of fire district Number Two was referred to police and sanitary committee in conjunction with health office.

The Junior C. E. Society of the Presbyterian church held a valentine party Thursday evening at the residence of Miss Campbell, the superintendent of that department. Fifth street near Adams. About thirty young people were present, and the evening was passed in the playing of those games dear to the juvenile heart. Light refreshments were served.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING.

H. M. Hess is building at 508 Orange street a $1800 cottage.

Mrs. A. O. Crawford, Viola and Louise streets, is building a six-room house.

A. E. Vose is building for W. H. Morrison on Maple avenue a residence to cost $1200.

Mrs. Lopez, Verdugo road above Sixth street, has taken out a permit for a house to cost $1000.

F. E. Buckholtz, Myrtle and Remington streets, is building a one-story house of six rooms, cost about $1500.

H. D. Brown has a contract for a bungalow to be built for Harvey Hall on Mary street between Fourth and Fifth, cost $1600.

Fred Meier has a contract for a residence to be built on the Garden Home tract for J. F. McCleish, to cost $1500, five rooms, story and a half.

Dr. Guernsey has exchanged his place at Tropico for the house and lot belonging to E. D. Reynolds on Cedar street near the corner of Second.

D. R. Easton reports the sale of the house owned by Mr. Wessels on Isabel street between Fourth and Fifth to Mr. F. M. Litchfield. Consideration $2500 cash.

Garfield Jones has sold his house on Cedar street between First and Second to Daniel M. DeVore of Santa Monica. Mr. DeVore comes here with his family to take their home in Glendale.

F. C. Hodder on Belmont street between Second and Third, is building a $1500 cottage. Mrs. L. A. Mansfield is also building on Belmont street above Third street a six-room house, costing about same as the above.

Mr. A. T. Varney has sold the property of Mr. F. M. Litchfield on Elrose street to Mr. Archer. Also the property of Mrs. Dull on Third street east of Adams to Mr. Hughes of the Vineyard tract, who takes possession early next month.

Adams and Murdoch are building a house for Dave Carney, on Louise street between Fourth and Fifth to cost $2000. The same firm has a contract for a house for T. E. Moser, Central avenue and Fourth street, costing about $2500.

The condition of the realty market may be reported as satisfactory. All the agents seem to be in an agreeable frame of mind, nearly all of them having something to show for the past week's work. Among the visitors to the valley daily are a large proportion of homeseekers. The condition of the market is better indeed than at any time for a year or two past.

Chandler & Lawson report the following sales for the past week: House and lot Fairview avenue, belonging to C. C. Murray, sold to Annie E. Lord, price $3000; House and lot on Ivy street, Margaret Lawson to Anna A. Fisher, price $3500. House and lot on Ivy street, T. H. Mulrey to F. C. Murray, $1500.

This firm is now building three houses located as follows: One on West Fourth street, one on Ivy street, and the third on Tenth street. The contractor is the Glendale Milling and Lumber company, the average cost being about $2000.

THE DOG CRUSADE.

Up to the time we go to press the marshal has had over 30 dogs killed, being found at large on the streets without a muzzle, as required by law. As a result the streets are practically lawless and the people generally are rejoicing that at last a dog law is being made effective.

Some people, however, do not yield to the law gracefully. F. W. Anderson was arrested by the marshal and brought before charge according to the terms of the ordinance. He demanded a change of venue to another court, he judge taking the matter under advisement for the time being, but finally refusing to grant it. Mr. Anderson was notified to appear later. He will probably demand a jury trial.

BUSINESS CHANGE.

Daniel Reed of the Brand boulevard shoe shop has sold out his business to Joe Kleine. Mr. Kleine comes from Los Angeles and expects to make some changes of importance in the business very shortly.

BOARD OF TRADE SPECIAL MEETING.

Monday evening, Feb. 21st, next, at 407 hall.
J. M. BANKER, Secy.

CALLED HOME.

Roy Herbert Kelsey, born Dec. 5, 1888, passed away Feb. 12th, 1910, leaving a wife and babe.

Possessed of indomitable will power and courage he pressed manfully forward in the duties of life until the frail body at last refused to obey the dictates of that fine intellect.

Devoted relatives, kind friends and neighbors delighted in ministering to the very wish and wants of this affectionate, thoughtful and unselfish character. A lover of nature and all that was highest and best in life his aspiring soul craved development and education along ideal lines and he reached out for those things which "neither moth nor rust doth corrupt." During the last week he seemed most happy and satisfied in the contemplation of the spiritual life and it is thought from the following lines found in his pocket that he anticipated the change.

"When earth's last lyric has been sung; when earth's last story has been told,
And when the fading burnt-out sun has thrown its final beam of gold,
Out there where dawn and twilight meet—upon some mystic spectral strand,
I'll wait for you."

The funeral service was held at the home of his mother and conducted by the Rev. J. P. Moody, who spoke helpful, hopeful, comforting words to the hearts of the loved ones left. Mrs. Pringle, whose music had brightened the last hours of the deceased, feelingly sang, "Lead Kindly Light," of which song he had been fond. The interment took place at Rose-dale cemetery.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Women's Missionary society of the Glendale Presbyterian church for election of officers and consideration of work for the year, will occur on Wednesday, Feb. 23, instead of the 22d as had been purposed. It will be held at the home of Mrs. H. N. Harris, 304 West Third street, at 2:30 p. m., and will be addressed by officers of the Presbyterian society. Mrs. N. W. Cleland, president, and Mrs. Murray M. Harris, secretary. An urgent invitation is given to all the women of the congregation, and any gentleman not too busy to come will be welcome.

DEATHS.

Roy Herbert Kelsey died at the residence of his mother, Mrs. Hammerstein, at 451 East Second street, last Saturday morning, aged 21 years, of tuberculosis. Funeral services were conducted at the residence Monday at 2:30 p. m. by Rev. Moody and interment was made at Rose-dale cemetery, Los Angeles. He came here with his mother from South Dakota a month or so ago for the son's health.

Mrs. Sarah D. Strickler, wife of Walter C. Strickler of 146 East Sixth street, died last Sunday at her residence after an illness of several months. Services were held and the body interred at Rose-dale cemetery, Los Angeles, on Monday last.

MERCHANTS' EXHIBIT.

On April 12th and 13th next there will be an exhibit given by the merchants and business men of Glendale at Filger's Opera house which promises to be an eye-opener as an advertisement of what we are and what we have. Plans for floor space can be seen at 615 West Fourth street. Merchants and business men are all requested and expected to make an exhibit of their wares or products. Every one to be responsible for his own exhibits.

No auction will be held and no sales made, but admission will be charged at the door, the proceeds to apply to the building fund for a club house for the Tuesday Afternoon club.

REAL ESTATE SALES.

W. O. Borthick of Tropico made the following real estate sales in this city recently:

One lot to Mr. Terrill on Ninth street and the boulevard in the Randolph tract for $950. This buyer will build an eastern party who also will build. One lot in the Lomita Park tract to E. C. Getts of Glendale, who will build for $1750. One lot on the boulevard in the Erchenbrecker tract to Miss Freda Borthick.

Mrs. Borthick has purchased two lots of Mr. Hester on Maple street, and one lot in the Erchenbrecker tract, corner Fourth street and Central.

THE NEWS AT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, LOS ANGELES.

There were delivered to the Chamber of Commerce this week 100 copies of the News of last week. Surprise has been expressed by visitors at that popular resort that Glendale is not represented there, as so many other places are, by folders or other literature giving information in regard to this section. A far better means of conveying knowledge of a town to inquirers than is afforded by folders, is the weekly paper published in the section to be exploited, and with this idea in view we propose from time to time to make donations to the Chamber of Commerce for the general benefit.

GLENDALE IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

Will meet Friday evening, Feb. 25th, next, at K. of P. hall, 302 1/2 Brand boulevard. All citizens of Glendale and vicinity are invited to attend.
E. H. KERKER, Secy.

THE YUMA RESERVATION LANDS.

Mr. Ann Farnet and his son John returned a few days ago from a visit to Yuma, Ariz., where they spent two or three days looking over that section and particularly the portion of the Indian reservation there which is to be thrown open to settlement on March first. Mr. Farnet is much impressed with the possibilities of the country around Yuma and the evidences of prosperity shown by the farmers and others in that section. The quantity of land to be released for settlement is limited to something like three hundred forty acre tracts, so that no great rush is likely to occur, such as has marked the opening of large tracts in the Northwest recently. The price to be paid is $65 an acre, including water right under the Laguna dam, payments to be $300 a year until paid up. In addition there is a payment of one dollar per acre to be made on every acre of land every year for water maintenance. Mr. Farnet reports that the Yuma oranges which are now being marketed are exceptionally fine in quality. The navelas are all gone and Mediterranean Sweets are being shipped.

GAS COMPANY AT WORK.

Not necessarily for publication but as evidence of good faith, the Domestic Gas company has begun the laying of gas pipe in Glendale. Pipe has been laid along Sixth street east from Brand boulevard, the evident intention being to get the pipe in the ground before the improvement of the street goes on any further. Probably the same action will be taken in regard to other streets on which improvement work has not been done. The Domestic company is piping East Los Angeles along the San Fernando road and connection will no doubt be made with the main line there.

BIG TIME AT ANAHEIM.

About 125 members of the K. of P. lodge and their families went on the excursion to Anaheim last Sunday, the occasion being a celebration in honor of the initiation of 100 members into the uniform rank on the previous evening. It is estimated that 3000 people were fed by the hospitable lodge people on the occasion while one member paid the expense of the special train that carried visitors from Los Angeles.

The home of Mrs. E. Satin, 435 Louise street, was the scene of a pleasant surprise party given in honor of the twenty-first birthday anniversary of Clarence E. Emery. The guests numbered thirty and the house was decorated in the high school colors. A sumptuous luncheon was served at a late hour after which all departed wishing him many happy returns of the day.

THE PUBLISHER.

TO ADVERTISERS.

Our first page business directory will, until further notice, be a regular feature, appearing in every issue. There will only be put in this directory the names of patrons who expend monthly at least one dollar in advertising in the NEWS.

Seventeen out of the eighteen pension offices in the United States are proposed to be abolished by a bill lately presented in Congress. Should it be adopted all pensions will be paid at the Washington office.

The Lincoln-Roosevelts are said to have decided to give their support for the nomination for governor to Chas. M. Belshaw, ex state senator from Contra Costa. We have taken occasion to speak well of Mr. Belshaw before; he has a good record as an independent man in public life and being wealthy can afford to maintain it.

We are now importing hens eggs from Europe. What's the matter with Aldrich, and where is Senator Flint? Must the product of the aristocratic Plymouth Rock of our great and glorious country, be brought into competition with the pauper hen critters of Europe? Perish the thought. Increase the tariff, quick!

Gardena, which is in the "Shoe String" strip and a part of Greater Los Angeles, is asking for some relief from the burden of taxation which it is struggling under since its absorption. The people there claim that many of the Los Angeles ordinances, although useful in the large city, become burdensome when applied to the affairs of Gardena.

The North Pole controversy has developed nothing quite so warm as the expressed opinion of Robert E. Peary, by Capt. B. S. Osborn, secretary of the Arctic Club of America. "Ego-tist," "bragart," etc., are words which enliven the captain's letter to the subcommittee of the house naval committee, in what he expresses approval of their action in refusing to make Peary a rear admiral.

Tombstones have a reputation of lying with considerable fluency, but they are not in it with the head lines of a partisan newspaper. Los Angeles has a great daily that is particularly given to this kind of deception. A recent example is given in the caption over an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, giving an account of the proceedings in the Ballinger examination when the whole tenor of the account is perverted in an effort to make light of the testimony of Glavin. Readers of newspapers who digest the headlines only, run the risk of accumulating a vast amount of misinformation.

Now that the political campaign has actually begun, the practical workings of the primary law are making themselves known to the people and there is not much doubt, but that a pretty radical change will be demanded of the next legislature. The demand from the people was for a "Direct" primary law; but the one that the leg-lature gave us is far from direct. The idea was to do away with partisan politics, but the present law perpetuates partisanship. Under the old system both Democratic and Republican primaries allowed some little leeway for voters. Unless directly challenged and required to give a pledge, there was a chance for the free lance in politics, the Prohibitionist, the Socialist and others to assist in making the ticket of the party.

In Oklahoma recently, a convict who had violated his parole, was recaptured and taken back to the penitentiary to serve out his sentence. This convict is known to be guilty of three or four murders and is supposed to have killed at least six men. Yet with this fiendish record he has been pardoned twice by a president of the United States and paroled once by the governor of the state. It would seem to be a case in which the quality of mercy has been severely strained and is a strong argument in favor of capital punishment. There is considerable danger that by the wave of sympathy going out toward criminals at the present time, the rights of innocent people outside of prison walls are liable to be swept aside. There is such a thing as too much kindness being shown towards criminals, a fact testified to by many who have learned the fact by sad experience.

A magazine writer referring to conditions in Cuba says: "The yellow fever is a thing of the past. With the departure of the mosquito the fever is gone." The triumph of science in discovering the cause of this terrible malady, is one of the most remarkable achievements of the century. But it was achieved at some cost. Several devoted physicians, the true heroes of peace, freely and deliberately gave their lives to demonstrate the truth of the theory that the germ of yellow fever is usually transmitted by the mosquito which therefore become not the actual cause but the disseminator of the disease. If the United States gained nothing else by intervention in Cuba, it deserves the gratitude of the world for this one achievement, while the men who became the martyrs of the cause should receive all the honor given to the soldier who at the battle's front yields up his life for flag and country.

COYOTES NEXT.

Efforts to exterminate the things in the animal creation that are generally considered pests, are likely to be followed when carried to excess, by the undesirable results which follow a disturbance of nature's balance. When the hawks, the owls and the snakes are all killed off, the field mice, gophers and squirrels multiply until they constitute a greater evil than the things exterminated ever were. Now here we are with the new dog ordinance in fatal effect for a brief fortnight and complaint comes from an esteemed subscriber on East Sixth street that she has lost more fat hens, taken from their peaceful roosts by coyotes, in the last week, than for the past five or six years. Now that the city fathers have banished the dogs by sending so many of them to their last hunting ground, they must in all justice protect us from coyotes! An ordinance should be passed at once banishing them from the confines of the city and the city marshal should post a copy of it at once, written in purest coyotish, upon the high brush of the surrounding hills!

NOMINATIONS FOR THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

The proposition of Edgar Leavitt, Esq., as set forth in the columns of the News last week and further elaborated in this issue, is somewhat unique and yet can be open to no serious objection as a means for forming a ticket, as it amounts to that and nothing more. The details, however, can be varied to some extent. By suggesting the selection of the six names receiving the highest votes for trustees, Mr. Leavitt seems to have in mind the formation of two tickets instead of one, an idea that precludes the formation of any other ticket. If but one ticket is to be formed from the names voted upon, it follows that the three receiving the highest number of votes will be the names selected for the ticket. After the selection, petitions will have to be circulated to give them legal standing as candidates. The experiment will be of interest anyhow, and as no one is bound by the result, we should be glad to see it tried.

In regard to the legality of nominations by petition, Assistant District Attorney Shaw informs us that the right to nominate by petition, which became a law a few years ago, was not in any way interfered with or changed by the Direct Primary law adopted by the last legislature.

CLIMATE BY THE FRONT FOOT.

Reminiscences of times past when property in Los Angeles was worth almost nothing as compared with present values, can be heard at any time when two or more of the "old timers" meet. The writer heard one the other day that seemed to point a moral. A certain tourist visited Los Angeles and was so favorably impressed that he thought something of investing there a portion of the sum represented by his ample bank account. He thought particularly well of a certain corner lot a little way out from the business center, and inquired its value, which was given to him as $100 per front foot. The expletive he used when he heard the price is unprintable in a respectable family journal, but it expressed profound disgust, and he concluded: "I don't want to buy climate." Ten years later he returned and looking up the same piece of property, was again impelled in his ungenerous way to express himself, but this time he realized that the joke was on himself and not on the climate, for the lot had recently been sold for $1200 per front foot! The writer of this has always been thought optimistic as to land values in this part of California, but looking back over the records of a score of years or more, he realizes that he has in reality been little better than a rank pessimist. The man who spurned the opportunity to buy climate at $100 a front foot, probably by this time realizes that the proper place for him is an asylum for the feeble-minded. The energetic and optimistic real estate agents whose business it is to put an additional shade of glory on the painted clouds above the setting sun, to gild the sunshine and sweeten the fresh air, are now as ever bending all their energies to the task of showing things as they will be, but falling most signally in the effort! The tenderfoot with a bank account who is now scornfully turning away from the chance to buy "climate" at any price, is missing the opportunity of his life and in the years to come will sadly, when it is too late, realize that the story of the real estate man was too much tinged with modesty and fell far short of truth.

FOLK ON THE LIMITATIONS OF REFORM.

Joseph H. Folk, former governor of Missouri, is the author of an interesting paper published in the Saturday Evening Post upon the "Limitations of Reform," in which he expresses some views that the great army of well-meaning people in this country who want to see a betterment of moral conditions, would do well to ponder over. Mr. Folk, having a record as a practical reformer who has really done things for the cause of good government, can well afford to run counter to the ideas of his enthusiastic but impractical co-workers in the ranks of reform movement, who appear to think that a legislative enactment is endowed with the quality of omnipotence. Mr. Folk insists that no man can be his own lawgiver, all must yield to the supremacy of the law. Every law written on the statute books must be enforced; all men have a right of work for a law's repeal, but no right to disregard or break the law. He says: "There is more need for the enforcement of existing laws, than for new laws. Good people too often make the mistake of supposing that good government is merely a matter of law and are much inclined to let the law do the work that they should do themselves. The most that any law can do is to afford good people an opportunity, through that law to obtain good government through their own activity." In regard to Sunday laws, he says: "The law cannot make either Baptist or Methodist, Catholic, Protestant or Jew. It cannot fix fast days or feast days. Separation of church and state must ever be one of the cardinal tenets of free government. In inspiring religious observance the mother's training, the Sunday school and the pulpit can accomplish more than all the compulsory laws that would be devised."

He draws a distinct line, however, between those laws which are dictated by religious motives and those which are for the protection of society. The open saloon on Sunday, for instance, has been found by experience to be an inciter of disorder, far more so than on other days of the week; therefore the closing of the saloon on Sunday is justified as a measure for the good of the state. "Because a thing is not right in our view it does not necessarily follow that there should be a law against it. These are things the individual conscience must deal with. The tendency of unlimited reform is to go on until it brings about a reform of its own excesses." The greatest enemy of reform is fanaticism and the effort should be to keep reform from becoming fanatical attempts to control the consciences of all in accordance with our own. His conclusion explains in concise form the vital idea of a republican form of government. "The rights of one man necessarily limit the rights of another. In becoming members of society, each must give up some natural rights in order that the freedom of all may be promoted. The object of all real reform is freedom. Freedom must be safeguarded by law and the limitation of freedom is fair play."

THE SCHOOLS

CORRECTION.

Our reference last week to the schools in this vicinity, inadvertently credited the West Glendale school with only three teachers, when as a matter of fact there are four teachers aside from the teacher of music and the rapidly increasing roll of pupils really demands a fifth. This school has made a more remarkable growth than any other school in the valley, the most of the increase being in the last year and a half and the indications being good for a continuance of rapid growth, as that section of the valley is building up wonderfully.

FOURTH STREET GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

The next regular Parent-Teachers' Association meeting of this school will be held in the school on Friday, Feb. 25th, at 3:00 p. m. A special program is being prepared to which the patrons and friends of the school are invited. The attendance picture went to the fifth and sixth grades at the last meeting.

The boys' baseball team is practicing hard for the game this afternoon. They play the Sixth street school and are confident of winning.

There will be no school sessions next Tuesday on account of that day being the anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

Washington's birthday programs will be given in the various rooms Monday afternoon. The teachers of the different rooms will have charge of the programs, which will consist of musical and literary numbers.

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL.

The number of pupils enrolled has reached the two hundred mark. Among late entries are the following: Frank Mosher, 11th year, from Pomona High; Thomas Richards, 10th year, from Los Angeles High; Susie Powell, from the preparatory school of U. S. C. and Mary Utter for special work. Of the total enrollment there remain 180 in attendance, a remarkably good record. Seven have moved away, five have left to go to work and three have left on account of illness. The members who have left by reason of any discouragement in regard to their studies is therefore unusually small.

Miss Magowan is still in to resume work and her place is being filled by Mrs. Cornelia Jensen, a graduate of the Nebraska university, and of special work at Berkeley, who teaches the botany and general science classes.

The girls' basket ball team having won glory in their game with the Compton team last Saturday by which they became the champions of the suburban section by a score of 19 to 13, will now rest on their laurels. After the game last Saturday the team was entertained with refreshments by Mr. Seaton.

The boys' team by their victory over the Huntington Beach boys last Saturday at Orange where they won by a score of 39 to 27, became the champions of the Suburban league and are now in the finals for the championship of this part of the state. To decide this they play today (Saturday) the winner of the Citrus Belt league at the Harvard school court.

Ruth Satla gave a surprise party to Clarence Emery on Tuesday evening in honor of his 21st birthday. Twenty-one guests were invited and the affair was a jolly one.

Miss McLean's senior English class observed Lincoln's birthday by rendering a very interesting and varied program consisting of patriotic songs, papers on Lincoln as a politician, a man of the people, an author, his attitude toward labor, etc. There were readings of his Gettysburg address, and the emancipation proclamation, anecdotes and recitations.

The Tuesday Afternoon club will hold its next regular meeting February 22d. Cant. J. H. Wells will read a chapter from his book, "With Touch of Elbow." Mrs. D. H. Imler will review "To Have and to Hold." Mrs. J. C. Danford will speak of Margaret Collier Graham; Mrs. R. A. Blackburn will review "Cranford." The Cranford ladies will serve tea for ten cents. Proceeds to be used for the philanthropic work of the club.

TO THE VOTERS OF GLENDAL.

Messrs. J. C. Sherer, James H. Wells and Ezra Parker have consented to act as a committee to count nominations for candidates for city officials to be voted for April, 1910.

Every voter is invited to write on a paper his preferences as follows, and mail to Mr. J. C. Sherer up to March 5th, when the result will be made known:

For Councilmen
John Doe.
Richard Doe.
Wm. Hoe.
For City Clerk.
Henry Moe.
For City Treasurer.
Geo. Coe.
For City Marshal.
Theo. Boe.

(Signed) SAMUEL QUICK.

Mr. R. A. Blackburn informs me he will not be a candidate.

By oversight I failed to mention last week that a city treasurer is to be elected, and to speak the good word for Thomas W. Doyle, the present treasurer, which he deserves.

The committee receives the nominations in confidence, so you need not be afraid to sign your names.

Now let every voter who cares who is to be nominated and elected, show that he cares a two-cent stamp by sending in his choice. Don't put it off or you will neglect it altogether, but DO IT NOW.

A voter said the other day he didn't believe in re-electing officers again and again, he believed in "giving some other fellow a chance." I think he was wrong. Public office should be no man's chance, but the public's to get good service.

Experience counts,—and if an official is found honest and capable, I believe not for his sake or because but for the public's, he should be kept in until it is thought some one else can be had who will give better service.

If the place is a "snag" the conditions should be made so if will not be—so that the advantages shall just fairly pay for the most efficient service.

Send in your nominations to J. C. Sherer.

The Scrap Book

Too Realistic.
A fairly well to do but rather miserly farmer said to a friend: "Say, Bill, I'm going to kill my pig, but I owe so much pork to my neighbors that I shall have none left for myself if I pay it all back. What would you do?"

"Quite easy to trick 'em," said the friend. "Kill your pig and leave it hanging outside until late at night, so's every one can see it. Then take it in and say some one stole it. Stick to the tale and you'll be all right."

The farmer followed instructions, and the kind friend watched his chance and stole the pig. The poor farmer came around next morning to tell what had happened.

"Somebody's stolen my pig," he cried.

"Good!" said the friend. "Stick to it, and the neighbors'll believe you, sure enough."

"But it was stolen, I tell you!"

"Excellent!" quoth the friend. "Just you stick to the tale."

"You confounded ass!" yelled the farmer. "Don't you understand? It was really stolen!"

"Superb!" laughed the delighted friend. "You ought to have been an actor, so you ought."

Then the farmer slammed the door and went away fuming.

Opportunity.
Master of human destinies am I!
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait;

Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote and, passing by
Movel and mart and palace, soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate.

I sleep, wake; if feasting, rise before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire and conquer every foe.

Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore—
I answer not and return no more.

—John J. Ingalls.

Didn't Have to Resort to Numbers.
The school census taker stopped at a little hut in the mountains of Kentucky and, addressing the mother of an unusually large flock of children, said:

"Madam, I am taking the school census. How many children have you between the ages of six and—"

"Lemme see," she broke in. "there's Katy an' Mary an' Annie an' Lucy an' Carrie an' Rob an' Jake an' Will an' Harry an' Jim an'—"

She paused for a breath, and her caller made haste to say:

"Now, madam, if you could just give me the number!"

"Number!" she snapped. "Number!" We ain't commenced numberin' yet, thank ye. We ain't run out o' names."

Rose to the Occasion.
The consul in London of a continental kingdom was informed by his government that one of his countrywomen, supposed to be living in Great Britain, had been left a million of money. After advertising without result he applied to the police, and a smart young detective was set to work.

When a few weeks had gone by his chief asked him how he was going on.

"I've found the lady, sir."

"Good! Where is she?"

"At my place. I got married to her yesterday!"

The Next Move.
A substantial looking man halted for a moment in the street, pulled out a big wallet and examined a card which he took from it. As he dropped the card back and closed the book a fat wad of bills showed in one of its compartments. A pair of pickpockets passing caught sight of the money, and with a rapid exchange of meaning glances, they dropped a little behind and followed the man for several blocks with the view of availing themselves of the first opportunity to remove him of the roll. After awhile the man with the wad suddenly turned and entered a lawyer's office, leaving the pickpockets facing each other with looks of dismay.

"What shall we do now?" growled one of them.

"Let us wait for the lawyer," said the other.

Meiba's First Appearance.
Meiba's first public appearance was made at the age of six, when she sang "Comin' Thro' the Rye" at a school concert. She was eager to hear what her playfellows, and one in particular, thought of her triumph. After many indirect attempts to introduce the subject Nellie at length found herself unable to wait longer and exclaimed excitedly: "But the concert, the concert! I sang last night and was an-cored!"

And she looked with interest in the face of her friend, who answered witheringly: "Yes; Nellie Mitchell and I could see your garters."

A Mean Thrust.

"Ten thousand dollars for a dog!" he exclaimed as he looked up from his newspaper. "Do you believe any one ever paid any such price, Maria?" "I'm sure I don't know, James," she returned without stopping her needle-work even for a moment. "Does the paper say that much was paid?" "Yes. There's an article on valuable dogs, and it's speaking of one that was sold for $10,000. I don't believe it." "It may be true, James," she said quietly. "Some of those high bred animals bring fancy prices, and there's no particular reason why the paper should lie about it." "I know that, Maria, but just think of it, just try to grasp the magnitude of that sum in your weak feminine mind. You don't seem to realize it—$10,000 for a dog! Why, hang it, Maria, that's more than I'm worth!" "I know that, James, but some are worth more than others."

She went on calmly with her sewing, while he fumed and spluttered for a moment and then dropped the subject, especially the weak feminine part, of it.

Quick Time Music.

A music teacher in Chicago was recently approached by a lady from the interior who confided to him her intention of taking piano lessons and inquired as to terms, etc. These proving satisfactory, she went on to explain that she was desirous of accomplishing a rapid course. The professor assured her that she might learn a great deal in twenty lessons.

"Good," said the woman. "I've got only a limited time in Chicago, so I must contrive to get the twenty lessons into that."

"How long are you to be here?" she was asked.

"Three weeks."

"Twenty lessons in three weeks?" exclaimed the astonished teacher. "You could never do that!"

"Oh, yes, I could!" returned the woman. "Couldn't I, Marie?" turning to a friend for support. "I could take two lessons a day, or perhaps I could take the whole at once. Twenty lessons, one after another, would only take ten hours."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Face of the Typical New Yorker.

London is a friendless city enough, heaven knows, to those who are not able to conquer, but she seems to me mild, benignant even, in comparison with New York. The face of the Londoner is very often overcast with the thought of how to get a living in the keen competition of the people in that mighty capital, but the London face is tranquillity embodied in comparison with the face of the typical New Yorker. Keen, hatchet shaped, anxious, absorbed—such is the face you see everywhere around you. And this keenness of face is accompanied by a terrible spirit of self absorption. You seldom see people talk much while they are traveling in the elevated railway or in the subway, as they call the underground train there.—T. P. O'Connor in London M. A. P.

Napoleon's Temper.

A story is told of a sudden rage into which Napoleon I. fell one day as he was at dinner. He had scarcely partaken of a mouthful when apparently some inopportune thought or recollection stung his brain to madness, and, receding from the table without rising from his chair—his small stature permitted that—he uplifted his foot—dash went the table, crash went the dinner, and the emperor sprang up, intending to pace the room. Quick as a flash his waiter scratched a few magic symbols on a bit of paper, and the emperor's check had grown more than double. Napoleon appreciated the delicacy of his attendant and said, "Thank you, my dear Dunand," with one of his inimitable smiles. The hurricane had blown over.

Decimals and Duodecimals.

Herbert Spencer offered a characteristically original system of reckoning. He clung to the duodecimal system, mainly because twelve can be divided by three and four and ten cannot. But he suggested that all the advantages of both systems might be combined by making twelve the basis of calculation, inventing two new digits to take the places of ten and eleven and making twelve times twelve the hundred. Spencer scornfully remarked that the decimal system rests solely on the fact that man has ten fingers and ten toes. If he had had twelve "there never would have been any difficulty."

A Quaint Epitaph.

Here is an epitaph which may be read in an English churchyard attached to Leamington church:

"Here lies the body of Lady O'Looney, great-niece of Burke, commonly called the sublime. She was Bland, Passionate and Deeply Religious; also she painted in water colors and sent several pictures to the exhibition. She was the intimate friend of Lady Jones. And of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

He Beat It.

"Where did you steal that mat from?" demanded the policeman as he seized the tramp.

"I didn't steal it," said the tramp. "A lady up the street gave it me and told me to beat it."—Judge's Library.

Leisure Hours.

Dr. Johnson had scant sympathy with inconsistent and arrogant industry. "No man, sir, is obliged to do as much as he can. A man should have part of his life to himself."

Curious Styles of Letter Endings.

He in the habit of perusing old letters struck with the tone of great humility and deference which pervades the correspondence of our ancestors.

A few specimens of the style of beginning and ending letters may prove interesting in its striking contrast to the laconic "yours obediently," "faithfully" or "truly" of the present day. It would certainly be difficult to match the following subscription of a letter from the Duke of Shrewsbury to Sir Thomas Hanmer, dated September, 1713: "I desire that you will believe that, wherever I am, I shall always endeavor to deserve and very much value your friendship, being, with a sincere esteem, sir, your most faithful and obedient servant, Shrewsbury."

Frequently one meets with belittling subscriptions, as in the case of the Earls of Rutly and Errol, who in 1594 threatened "awful consequences to the magistrates of Aberdeen unless they released certain gentlemen imprisoned in their city and inscribed, "Yours as ye will, either present peace or weir."

Arithmetic by Hand.

We shall never be in danger of forgetting that our ancestors did their sums on their fingers so long as arithmetic retains the word "digits." But modern civilization knows nothing of the elaborate developments of this method. It takes a Wallachian peasant to multiply 8 by 9 on his hands. This is how he does it: The fingers of either hand, beginning with the thumb, stand for the numbers from 6 to 10. So the ring finger of one hand and the middle finger of the other are stuck out to represent 8 and 9. Counting the fingers remaining on the side farthest from the thumbs he finds them 1 and 2 respectively, and 1 multiplied by 2 gives him the units of his product—2. Then he counts from the thumbs to the stuck out fingers inclusive, finds them 3 and 4, adds these, and gets 7 for his tens. Answer, 72. All this to avoid knowing the multiplication table beyond 4 times 4!

For the Judge's Information.

The police court judge could not repress a smile when his eyes rested on a card that was lying on his desk during a session of the court. On it were printed two stanzas under the title "The Perfect Man," and he could not but look at the motley gang of prisoners who sat before him. And he did not think the card had been dropped accidentally. The verses read:

There is a man who never drinks,
Nor smokes, nor chews, nor swears,
Who never gambles, never fights,
And shuns all sinful snares—
He's paralyzed.

There is a man who never does
Anything that is not right,
His wife can tell just where he is
At morning, noon and night—
He's dead.

—Indianapolis News.

Pleaded an Extenuation.

An Indiana youth had called with a cab to take the judge's daughter to a dance, scarcely two blocks from her home. The judge entered the room where the youth was waiting. Pacing across the room a couple of times with his head bent and thoughts concentrated, he came short about in front of the youth and declaimed:

"Young man, this cab-hiring to go two blocks is foolish, unwise, unthoughtful, misguided, unreasonable, lavish—a prodigality—a—a—I am surprised. My daughter is flesh and blood, and she won't melt, and if her gown should be ruined I bought it, and I can buy her—"

"That's all right, judge, but my father is paying for that cab."—Woman's Home Companion.

The Curse.

An Irish authority thus defines as an expert the effects of a well delivered curse: "The belief among the ancient Irish was that a curse once pronounced must fall in some direction. If it has been deserved by him on whom it is pronounced it will fall on him sooner or later, but if it has not then it will return upon the person who pronounced it. They compare it to a wedge with which a woodman cleaves timber. If it has room to go it will go and cleave the wood, but if it has not it will fly out and strike the woodman himself who is driving it between the eyes."—London Globe.

Strict Women Who Love.

The strictest women are at times the most loving. When this happens their attachment is as strong as death, their fidelity as resisting as the diamond. They are hungry for devotion and at last for sacrifice. Their love is a piety, their tenderness a religion, and they triple the energy of love by enshrining it as a duty.—Henri Frederic Amiel.

Shadows.

The shadows of the mind are like those of the body. In the morning of life they all lie behind us, at noon we trample them underfoot, and in the evening they stretch long, broad and deepening before us.

An Exception.

She (protestingly)—That's just like you men. A man never gets into trouble without dragging some woman in with him. He—Oh, I don't know. How about Jonah in the whale?—Boston Transcript.

A Mean Retort.

Bertha—I'm sorry you asked me to marry you. It pains me to refuse. Will (cheerfully)—Oh, don't worry! Perhaps you know best what I'm escaping.

Shooting Jack Rabbits.

"Jack rabbits in Kansas are just as numerous as they were the day the first covered wagon moved across it toward the Rocky mountains," said a Kansas farmer. "It appears to me they are galloping around in greater numbers than ever. Did you ever try to exterminate a jack rabbit? If you never did you're something to learn about shooting."

"A jack rabbit's movement starts with a spring in the air. He lands on all fours, and the intervening space from the time he jumps and the time he lights is just about nothing, but he covers from ten to fifteen feet with every jump. There's only one way to take 'em alive and that is to leave the top of a pasture well overnight. Next morning there'll be plenty, because jack rabbits will jump into any kind of a hole that's open. They seem to have a fondness for dried-out wells. They outrun the average dog with ease, but can't beat the greyhound. Shooting them on the run is as difficult as shooting birds on the wing, possibly more difficult. Possibly 25,000 are killed in Kansas every year, and yet they seem just as numerous as ever."—St. Paul Dispatch.

A Dr. Johnson Story.

Dr. Johnson had some ideas on education, especially on that diversion known as "learning a piece by heart." One day Mrs. Gastrel set a little girl to repeat to him Cato's soliloquy, which she went through very correctly. The doctor, after a pause, asked the child, "What was to bring Cato to an end?" She said it was a knife. "No, my dear, it was not so." "My Aunt Polly said it was a knife," "Why, Aunt Polly's knife may do, but it was a dagger, my dear." He then asked her the meaning of "bane" and "antidote," which she was unable to give. Mrs. Gastrel said, "You cannot expect so young a child to know the meaning of such words." He then said, "My dear, how many pence are there in sixpence?" "I cannot tell, sir," was the half terrified reply. On this, addressing himself to Mrs. Gastrel, he said, "Now, my dear lady, can anything be more ridiculous than to teach a child Cato's soliloquy who does not know how many pence there are in sixpence?"

Pepys and the Comet.

They were watching a comet in Pepys's day, though Halley at the time was but eight years old. "My Lord Sandwich this day," says the diarist, Dec. 21, 1694, "writes me word that he hath seen at Portsmouth the comet and says it is the most extraordinary thing he ever saw." Again on the 24th: "Having sat up all night till past 2 o'clock this morning, our porter being appointed, comes and tells us that the bellman tells him that the star is seen upon Tower hill; so I, that had been all night setting in order of my old papers in my chamber, did now leave off all and my boy and I to the Tower hill, it being a most fine, bright, moonshine night and a great frost, but no comet to be seen." Later the same day, however, Pepys "saw the comet, which now, whether worn away or no, I know not, appears not with a tail, but only is larger and duller than any other star."

The Geese Were Duck's.

The following little incident took place awhile ago at a Northeastern station in Yorkshire:

Some geese had strayed on the railway and were observed by a traveler, who, fearing that they might be run over, said to one of the porters on the platform:

"Who owns the geese, my man?"

"Them's Duck's," the porter replied.

Again the question was asked, with the same reply. Somewhat annoyed, the traveler called the station master and told him the story, stating that he full well knew the difference between geese and ducks.

The station master laughingly replied: "The man is quite right. Those geese are Duck's. They belong to Mr. John Duck, the farmer."—London Tit-Bits.

Rose to the Occasion.

Mr. Kajones, who happened to step into the parlor while looking for a book, was just in time to see somebody slip hastily off somebody else's knee.

"Ah, Bessie," he observed pleasantly, "this is a merger, is it? Or is it a limited partnership?"

"Neither, papa," said Bessie, recovering herself instantly: "George is my holding company—that's all."—Chicago Tribune.

The Best She Could Do.

"We've got to cut down our expenses," said Woody. "We are living in a style that makes everybody think my income must be twice as big as it is."

"Well," his wife replied, "what more do you want, seeing that there is no chance for you to double your income?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Fidgety Bachelor.

"But why do you put your friend's things in the dining room?"

"Oh, he is so used to restaurants that he won't enjoy his dinner unless he can watch his hat and coat."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Schoolboy Logic.

"Should women have votes for parliament? Give your reasons for and against." This was a question asked of schoolboys in a recent examination in England. One boy replied: "No, because if they did they would want to get into parliament and then they would pass a lot of silly laws, such as that a man was not to smoke before his wife or that wives were to have Wednesdays and Thursdays off and then the men would have to stay at home and mind the children."

A logical answer to the question, "Why does a kettle sing?" was furnished by a boy who wrote, "Because if it did not you could not tell when the kettle was boiling." Asked to explain the initials "C. O. D.," one boy replied that they stood for "collector of debts," and a second said "cool-liver oil."

Another enterprising youth described a sleeping partner as "a man who goes to sleep when playing bridge." Asked how he would mend a puncture in a bicycle tire, a boy's answer was to the point: "I would get a box of stuff that you do it with and stick it on."

Importance of a Word.

If you should write a letter to the man who is chief magistrate of this republic you are at liberty to address him as "The President, Washington, D. C." That will be sufficient. He is not "his excellency," as is the supreme executive magistrate of Massachusetts, nor "his high mightiness," a title which, they say, sounded pleasing to the ear of the Father of His Country. But if you should write a letter to the secretary of state of the United States, whom the plain "president" appointed to the job, prepare to dip your pen in honorific ink. While the chief magistrate is plain "president," without any titular epaulettes, his secretary of state is "the honorable secretary of state." It will not do to address him as "the secretary of state" simply. He is something more than that. The etiquette of the state department requires that the word "honorable" be prefixed to the word "secretary."—Boston Globe.

Fire Prevention Among Pines.

Pines protect themselves against forest fires in a remarkable manner. For four or five years the stems of the infant trees attain a height of only as many inches above the soil. During this time their bark is extraordinarily thick, and that alone gives some protection. But, in addition, the long needles spring up above the stem and then bend on all sides in a green cascade which falls to the ground in a circle about the seedling. This green barrier can with difficulty be made to burn, while the shade that it casts prevents inflammable grass from growing near the protected stem. The officers of the forestry service at Washington are of opinion that it is owing to this peculiar system of self protection which the pine seedlings have developed that the growth of evergreen oaks in Florida has been restricted in regions where fires have raged, while the forests have taken their place.—Lester's Weekly.

When Wives Were Sold.

When the war between Britain and France ended in 1815 many of the English soldiers found that their wives had married again in the belief that they were widows. The formal selling of the wife was regarded among the ignorant as a legal solution to the problem thus presented, and it is said that the authorities of the day deemed it best to shut their eyes at the proceeding. A certain amount of formality had to be observed, however, before the sale was considered legal even by the most ignorant. A Yorkshire writer mentions two conditions which must be carried out to make a satisfactory sale—the price of the wife must not be less than 1 shilling (24 cents), and she must be delivered to her purchaser with a new halter around her neck. The same writer records the case of the woman who zealously preserved the receipts for herself as a proof of respectability.

Humor and Morality.

We have extirpated gross humor from our modern literature, but we must not suppose that we are therefore more moral than the Elizabethans, whose literature was full of gross humor. It may be that we are only more afraid of ourselves and each other. This kind of fear is destructive not only of gross humor, but of humor of all kinds. In its essence humor is brave as it is honest, but with cowardice and dishonesty there come base substitutes for it, substitutes that make fun of noble things with a humorous air, and so bring humor itself into discredit.—London Times.

A Great Mystery Solved.

How many hairpins does a woman use when doing her hair? The hairpin editor has investigated and makes this report: "She uses just as many as she has. If she has only two hairpins she makes her hair stay up with two, but if she finds twenty in the top bureau drawer she uses all of them."—Acheson Globe.

A Sensitive Patient.

Dr. Emdee—Feel to go to sleep? That shows your circulation is bad. Editor—That's all you quacks know. I suppose if my corns ached that would show that advertising patronage was falling off.

The Best of It.

Something About People You Know

The Sweet Sixteen club gave a dance last evening at Odd Fellows' hall which was a very swell and successful affair.

Mrs. J. R. White, Jr., of Brand boulevard entertained with a card party Friday evening of last week. Mr. Shattuck and Mrs. Monroe carried off the first prizes.

Mr. Lyman of Los Angeles, who owns the four lots on which the Valley Lumber yard is situated, passed some time in this city recently.

Mrs. Clinton Rosette, Floyd George and sister, Miss Mabel, all of DeKalb, Ill., passed Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne P. Snow of Lomita Park.

Miss Lois Hatch, teacher in the Sixth street school, will entertain several friends at her home on Howard street, between Second and Third, this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Barager of "The Peppers" on Adams street had for week-end guests Mr. and Mrs. James Belwood and son, Owen, of Long Beach, and Mrs. Carruthers of Moscow, Idaho.

Mrs. Corella Phipps of Cumnock and Marlborough schools, called at the NEWS office this week and tells us that she intends opening a studio of languages and dancing in Glendale soon. Her work will be in classes and private, with rates according to the demand.

Mrs. Geo. L. Young, corner Central and Dryden, gave a party in honor of her brother, Mr. Chas. B. Crouch's 19th birthday on Saturday afternoon last. Los Angeles and Glendale were in attendance. Decorations were festoons of hearts, and favors and place cards were heart-shaped boxes. The music, refreshments and other features of the evening were greatly enjoyed by all present.

A party was given Monday evening in honor of St. Valentine at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Barager, "The Peppers," on Adams street. Their son Kenneth Miles being the host. Soft red lights cast a rosy glow in the long living rooms which were decorated with festoons of green and scores of red hearts. Many valentine games were played during the evening and a valentine reading given by the Misses Lillian and Birdie Shropshire much enjoyed. Albert Cornwell secured a gorgeous valentine prize for making the largest number of arrows stick in a large heart. Miss Lois Graham and Ray Morrow were the most successful in the valentine hunt.

Late in the evening a delicious supper was served, the table being made with a huge valentine by the use of satin ribbons and red hearts. Valentines were used for place cards and at the plate of each young lady was a tiny bonbon basket filled with candy hearts. Mrs. Charles Edward Bailey daintily dined in white, presided at the punch bowl.

The young guests who received the unique valentine invitations were the Misses Lillian and Birdie Shropshire, Rena Louise Severance, Cora Violet Ward, Lois Graham, Blanche Tarr, Nettie Watson, Margaret Nichols, Harriet Nichols, Anna Woodberry, Minna Sue Robertshaw, Florence Ward, Messrs. Albert Cornwell, Clarence Smith, Byron Severance, Ray Morrow, Kenton Robertshaw, Clyde Morrow, Merle McNutt, Gordon Kelley, Ralph Roue.

"That M. A. King and his wife are not married."

"That Mrs. M. A. King (FANNY BRIGGS CARR) is not married."

"That any person or people of questionable character have ever visited or been entertained at La Vinnaga Rancho, the Verdugo home of M. A. King and his wife, FANNY BRIGGS CARR."

In August last, on an Eagle Rock street car, Miss Harriet Spangler of Eagle Rock, was introduced by some one, in my presence, to FANNY BRIGGS CARR, the wife of M. Adrian King, of Vinnaga Ranch, Verdugo. I was introduced at the time and when I inquired of Miss Spangler the reason, Miss Spangler said that it was impossible for her to avoid the introduction. Miss Spangler further voluntarily stated that Mr. and Mrs. King were not married and therefore Mrs. King was not a respectable woman and that all sorts of people of questionable reputation visited and were entertained at Mr. and Mrs. King's ranch home.

Since this time I have met Mr. King and FANNY BRIGGS CARR. I have frequently visited and been entertained by them at their home and I am satisfied that reports such as uttered by Miss Spangler are absolutely false and nothing but slander. That I make this statement voluntarily and under oath.

Why pay cash when you buy at a credit store? You don't get goods any cheaper, and are paying your good money to pay some other fellow's debts. Why not get away from this and trade at the Glendale Ice & Supply Co.?

Your Checks are Receipts

"PAY as you go" is an excellent maxim provided you "pay-by-check." It's foolish to carry money on the person, except for the smallest purchases and incidentals, for aside from the care and inconvenience there is always the danger of theft or loss.

BUT with a check-book of this bank in your pocket the inconvenience and worry is eliminated. You write out a check for the exact amount of each purchase, your check-stub is a record for reference and the check itself will later be returned to you by the bank and may be retained as a receipt.

SOME persons may think of the check account as being complicated. Nothing could be more simple, however. We keep books for you and there is a record for your every transaction.

Washington's birthday entertainments were given in the various rooms of the Tropic grammar school yesterday afternoon. Musical and literary numbers were given and the programs were in charge of the teachers.

The Tropic Feed and Fuel Co. hauled two cords of mesquite wood to the La Crescenta Winery on Wednesday. In times past, Tropic and Glendale depended for their wood upon the supply in La Crescenta and La Canada, but now the business seems to turn the other way.

Mrs. Jessica Cady, who for several years has been active in church matters at this place, has moved to Pasadena, where she is assisting in the college of osteopathy, of which her brother-in-law is dean. She has rented her house on Glendale avenue to a party from Los Angeles.

The roadway at the corner of Park avenue and Central is in a very poor condition at this time. It looks as though the road overseer might have started on some improvement work but changed his mind, leaving the street torn up. At one place a load of decomposed granite has been dumped and left lying there without being broken or leveled, making it very difficult walking for pedestrians. This matter might be worthy of the attention of Mr. Light.

A surprise party was tendered to Miss Loreta Schofield at her home on Glendale avenue, last evening by a number of her young friends. The affair was gotten up very secretly by Miss Laura Jackson, assisted by several friends, and when the young people arrived at the house Miss Schofield was entirely surprised. The evening was passed in games and music and at quite a late hour refreshments, brought by the surprisers were served.

The topic, "Current Events," was very interesting and added much pleasure to the afternoon. The club picture taken by our president, Mrs. F. C. Richardson, was so good that the sale of them went quietly on during the session and will no doubt bring in considerable toward more shares in the club lot.
